WISCONSIN CATHOLIC CONFERENCE STATEMENT OF THE CATHOLIC BISHOPS OF WISCONSIN ON THE MORALITY OF COVID-19

Dear Sisters and Brothers, January 13, 2021
Over the past ten months, our lives have been impacted by COVID-19 and the subsequent disruption that it has caused in society. The tragedy of premature death and fear of infection has been experienced worldwide and its lasting effects are still unknown. Fortunately, the United States and other countries have undertaken a process to develop vaccines to combat the virus and these vaccines are now being made available throughout Wisconsin. While access to effective vaccines is certainly welcome news and promises a great contribution to public health and safety, several moral considerations have arisen about their development. 1 Some vaccines have been either manufactured or tested with cell lines derived from the victims of abortion. Furthermore, the potential for mandatory reception of the vaccine poses questions regarding the right of conscience not to be vaccinated. Finally, advancing the common good requires reflection on how to effectively combat this disease, protect others and ourselves from the virus, and return to normalcy.

We do not address the medical efficacy of any particular vaccine. Individuals should discuss such concerns with qualified health professionals. However, we wish to respond to important moral questions surrounding vaccination and offer spiritual guidance to assist Wisconsin Catholics in forming their consciences and in following Jesus's command to love one another.

The Reception of a COVID-19 Vaccine

We are fortunate that vaccines have been developed which purportedly are over 90 percent effective in combating the virus. As of this writing, there are several different companies with vaccines in various stages of trial or approval. The challenge before us as Christians is that modern vaccines are sometimes manufactured or tested using cell lines from aborted children. This fact presents a significant moral dilemma, since a good end can never justify an evil means. Abortion is gravely wrong and every Christian must avoid participation in this evil.

The two earliest COVID-19 vaccines, manufactured by Pfizer and Moderna, fortunately do not use a cell line derived from an abortion in their manufacturing. During their testing, however, they did make use of abortion derived cell lines. Potential vaccines from other companies make use of aborted cell lines both in testing and manufacturing, thus increasing the moral dilemma.

Catholic moral theology has always made a distinction between formal and material cooperation in an act which is morally compromised. Formal cooperation with a moral evil such as abortion is always sinful. An example of this kind of cooperation might be the doctor or nurse who directly assists with, and intends, the abortion itself. Material cooperation can be different in that it does not intend the evil act and is often more distant or remote from the act itself. For example, one might patronize a store to buy laundry detergent, knowing that the parent company of the store sometimes donates to an entity which in turn performs abortions. In this particular example, the cooperation with any potential evil is quite remote and not in itself sinful.

Taking all of this into account, the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB) has recently stated that the use of current COVID-19 vaccines is morally permissible because of the remoteness of material cooperation. This statement was further bolstered by the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith (CDF) in Rome, which is the Holy Father's own doctrinal and moral office. Also, this same position was taken by the well-respected National Catholic Bioethics Center (NCBC). If a choice of vaccine is possible, the ones that are the least morally compromised should always be requested. However, when there is no choice, the Church teaches that it is morally permissible to receive the vaccine.

The Right to Act in Conscience

There will likely be those who, in conscience, do not wish to be vaccinated at this time. Reasons might include a concern about the safety of the vaccine, lasting moral concerns over the even remote cooperation in an abortion, or a general desire to exercise personal freedom in this matter. Such a choice must be treated with respect and those who do not wish to be vaccinated should not become the victims of discrimination. However, those who forgo vaccination should continue to do all in their power to prevent the spread of COVID-19 and ensure that their decision does not directly endanger the lives of others. It is important too that those who forgo vaccination do not judge others who have decided to receive the vaccine.

Promotion of the Common Good

In the end, it is our responsibility as Catholics to promote the common good in society, act in solidarity with our neighbor, and protect human life. How best to fulfill this duty requires reflection, prayer, and the formation of conscience informed by reason and natural law. Vaccination allows us to fulfill one of the greatest of God's commandments – to love our neighbor as ourselves. Those who are medically vulnerable and in need of vaccination should be afforded the means to access it.

Equally important is the need to strongly advocate for the development of vaccines that have no connection to abortion. Catholics should examine vaccines and know about the use of abortion-derived cell lines in their testing and manufacture, as well as more ethical options in development. We urge pharmaceutical companies and medical researchers to discontinue using abortion-derived cell lines and instead seek ethical alternatives.

Let us pray that God will lift this pestilence from us and that the lessons we have learned from these months of struggle will draw us ever closer to Him.

Building our Future
Together

Workers from Fowler & Hammer were here last Monday to begin the process of moving half of the pews to their warehouse for refinishing. The pews were numbered and plotted out on a grid map to aid in reinstallation. A crew from Church Interiors, Inc. will be coming to complete the refinishing work.

Over the next several months, daily Mass is being celebrated in the Parish Hall, but our weekend Masses will be in church. We will move chairs into the open space for seating for the weekend Masses. (See photo)

With the removal of pews, space was available to bring in equipment to begin the work of taking out the ceiling grills for paint removal and re-painting. The grills assist with ventilation flow for the HVAC system. Many years ago, the grills were painted over and many of the holes were "clogged." This project will not only be aesthetically pleasing but will improve our air conditioning comfort and efficiency. (See photo)

This past week masonry workers from Fowler & Hammer finished joint replacement and recaulking work on the west side of the rectory. They are moving to a different worksite for the next two weeks and then will be back to continue our project.

Last year at the beginning of Covid-19, the Small Business Administration (SBA) began making available loans to small businesses to maintain continued employment during the pandemic and to assist with some ancillary business expenses, such as utilities. The key component of the Paycheck Protection Program or "PPP" loans is that it carries the potential of being "forgiven" after complying with terms of the loan and submitting proof of that compliance. Mary, Mother of the Church Parish applied for a PPP loan last year and qualified for a $50,850 loan. The loan was a blessing to the parish as it enabled us to have a good cash flow and continue to pay all staff salaries including providing a stipend to our organists and pianists who would have otherwise not received any payroll during the period when we did not have public Masses. At the end of April, 2021 we received notice that the SBA approved and accepted our compliance reports and have forgiven our PPP loan completely without any interest or payments due. Accordingly, we have been able to remove that liability from our financial reports.

Thank you for the generosity which is accomplishing these spring and summer building projects. Please keep our parish and the success of this year's projects in your prayers.

A Parent's Prayer

Most Merciful Jesus, I offer my children to you.

No other person can understand my sorrows and anxieties and give me a greater help. Give me the grace to bring up my children because I know that without your help my work will not be fruitful. Purify my actions and enlighten my teachings before my children. Free them from sin, teach them to grow in love, protect them from bad company, help them in their studies, make them loving and merciful to the poor, the unfortunate, and the suffering people. Keep them in God's grace and in good health, so that they may grow for the sake of God's glory, the good of others, and the satisfaction of their parents. And when after death I appear before you, My judge, let Your Mother take good Care of my children. I promise You the hereafter I shall serve You, trust in You, and spread this devotion. Amen.
